MR. ROOSEVELT AT HARVARD.

INSISTS ON BEING TREATED MERELY AS AN ALUMNUS.

Ills Speech at the Dinner of the Class of 89 Not for the Public-129 of His 103 Classmates Greet Him-Will Stay in Cambridge Until Late To-night.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 27.-The people of Cambridge took President Roosevelt at his word to-day by allowing him to return to the scenes of his alma mater without any public display or demonstration on their part. The President arrived on his special train from Washington shortly before 7 o'clock this morning and was met at the Back Bay station by the Right Rev. William Lawrence, Bishop of Massachusetts whose guest Mr. Roosevelt will be during his visit here. A small escort of mounted police accompanied the carriage in which the President and the Bishop were driven to Cambridge, and a Secret Service officer was seated on the box beside the driver. Otherwise there was almost no sign that the President of the United States was visiting President Roosevelt will remain in Cambridge and Boston until 2 o'clock Thursday morning, the chief object of his visit being the reunion, after twenty-five years, of his class at Harvard. The reunion took place to-day and to-night, but Mr. Roosevelt will remain over to-morrow in order to attend the commencement exercises and to accept an invitation to address the alumni of the university at their annual dinner.

The outlook for good weather was not very promising at an early hour this morning, but about the time the President arrived the indications were that the sun would break through the clouds before noon. It did, but it was for only a short time, and then the clouds had their innings again. and they brought rain and even hail. The did not seem to mind the rain. panion throughout. he day, scorned to carry an umbrella.

Bishop's residence by Gov. 1k, at the Massachusetts according to program, ic. the Governor is confined to his home in Brockton by a cold, and his place was filled by Lieut.-Gov. Curtis Guild, Jr. Mr. Guild, Judge Francis C. Lowell of the United States District Court, the Rev. S. M. Crothers of the First Parish Church and Secretary Loeb were fellow guests with the President at the breakfast given by Bishop Lawrence. Soon after breakfast the President's son Kermit arrived from Groton, where he had been at school, and the President greeted him on the porch with a hearty hug and a kiss. Mr. Roosevelt remained at the Bishop's house until 10:45 o'clock, when arrangements were made to start out in the Bishop's carriage for a round of brief visits. The rain was falling smartly at that moment and the President wore a raincoat and a black felt hat. The top of the landau had been raised, but the Bishop surprised the bystanders by suggesting that it be

"That will suit me exactly, Bishop," said the President, and the cover was thrown Kermit Roosevelt accompanied his father and the Bishop, and, escorted by the guard of mounted police, they were driven to the Alpha Delta Phi house, where Mr. Roosevelt spent about twenty minutes in talking over old times with the members of the fraternity, some of whom were his classmates in college twenty-five years ago. From the chapter house the President went to the stadium for a still briefer visit, and then a longer drive was taken to the home of Mrs. George C. Lee, on Chestnut Hill, Brookline, where Mr. Rooseven and Kermit remained until nearly 1 o'clock. Mrs. Lee is the mother of the first Mrs. Roosevelt. George C. Lee, Jr., had already called on the President Bishop Lawrence's house. The luncheon of the class of '80, the President's class, was scheduled for 1 o'clock, and the President spent more than three hours in a jolly reunion with his classmates. No outsiders were admitted to these festivities and the President insisted that he should be allowed to participate merely as a member of the class on an equal footing with old comrades.

Alternately the sun shone and the rain fell in heavy showers all afternoon, and one of the showers came just as the class of '80, including the President, were posing for their group photograph outside the Oakley Country Club, where the luncheon was held. There was some delay, but in the course of the afternoon the President and his classmates were photographed twice. One of these pictures represents the dining club of which Theodore Roosevelt was a member while in college. After the photo-graphing was over the President drove to the Porcellian Club, where he spent about half an hour with the members. The affair was merely an informal social gathering, the President shaking hands with a numher of persons, nearly all of whom were old acquaintances.

The class of '80, which has the place of honor in this year's series of reunions at Harvard, formerly comprised 166 members, and it is considered remarkable that to-day after a lapse of twenty-five years, i30 of these are attending the reunion in Cambridge. Only a few of the members of the class now living are absent.

The President returned to the Lawrence which he was to attend at the Hotel Somerset across the Harvard Bridge in Boston, to-night. This function also was given by the class of '80, and no outsiders were present. By the President's express stipulation no report of his remarks nor of the other proceedings at the banquet was made.

Secretary of War Taft arrived in Boston at 2 o'clock this afternoon. The Secretary is the guest of Judge Francis G.

Lowell at Taunton, and it is probable that is will not see the President until the commencement exercises to-morrow afternoon. Before the President leaves for Oyster Bay however, he will have a long talk with Mr. Taft about various matters, including the Panama Canal.

The President will have a less quiet day to-morrow than he had to-day. At half past 9 in the morning he will drive to Massausetts Hall with the Governor, if Mr. Douglas recovers from his indisposition and, if not, with Lieut.-Gov. Guild. A quarter of an hour later he will join the quarter of an nour later ne will join the procession to Sanders Theater for the commencement exercises, but as Mr. Roosevelt has already received the degree of doctor of laws from six universities, including Harvard, he will receive no schools of the second of the sec cluding Harvard, he will receive no scrio-lastic decoration on this occasion.

The President will attend the alumni dinner after the commencement exercises, and will visit the Harvard Union, Prof. Hart's tea in honor of the class of '80 and other functions. He will make an address at the alumni dinner. In the evening he will wind up his visit to Cambridge and Boston with a dinner at the Somerset Club, at which only Mr. Roosevelt and a few of his particular chums and cronies while in

TO DEFEND VLADIVOSTOK. Russians Send Force South to Meet the Japanese Advance. Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN.

St. Petersburg, June 27 .- Advices have reached the general staff of the withdrawal from Vladivostok of three regiments of infantry, cavalry and artillery, to the number of 12,000 men. This is part of a rearward concentration necessitated by the advance of Gen. Kasegawa's sixth Japanese army across northeast Corea from the Tumen River. Gen. Kasegawa's force has developed unexpected strength, numbering over 100,000 men, although his vanguard numbers only 5,000. The knowledge that the enemy is so strong in the secondary seat of war has spread a hopeless feeling among the staff in regard to coming operations. It is convinced now that Field Marshal Oyama has a greater preponderance over Gen. Linievitch than he ever had over Gen. Kuropatkin. An intelligence officer remarked that he Japanese had hitherto adhered to the principle of concentrating all their forces on the main point, disregarding the possibilities of secondary expeditions like Sakhalin or Kamchatka. The most serious feature of the present situation is that the Japanese are able to spare Gen. Kasegawa's powerful army from the chief seat of war in Manchuria.

The military critic of the Russi Viedomosti urges Russia to seek an early peace. He says that maintaining a defensive war on the Russian frontier would be a hopeless expedient, yet such a war is being widely urged by influential representatives of the ruling bureaucracy. Such tactics of exhaustion could only be effective if Russia's means were limitless and Japan were unable to transfer the war to Russian territory. Such conditions are emphatically

LOST SIX DAYS IN SWAMP. Missing Gloucester Woman Found ... Zoe

GLOUCKes usappeared shortly after 6 clock last Wednesday night, was found to-day in a swamp near the net factory where the was employed. Since the woman dropped out of sight searching parties we scouled the whole of Cape Ann, but without discovering the slightest trace of her. How the woman managed to live without food and exposed to the heavy rains that have fallen nearly every day and night since she wandered in the swamp is mystifying. She will probably recover, but for some time after her discovery she was unable to talk.

Miss White was last seen when she started rom the factory to take a short cut through the woods to the home of her sister. There was a terrific downpour of rain and it is probable that the woman, frightened by the storm and the gathering darkness, tried to retrace her steps, became lost and wandered into the swamp. To-day, a factory employee was led by his dog into the swamp and found Miss White sitting unconscious on a stump.

Dr. Philip P. Moore, who attended the woman at the hospital, was surprised at her condition. He said:

"This is a strange case, but there is no rance about it. It is my belief that she has not been exposed to the weather during the entire time, but she has been out for a long period as her clothing was thoroughly saturated with water. She is in a remarkably good condition for one who has been under such an ordeal, and furthermore I believe that she has had some food during that time."

AUTOISTS JEER AFTER KILLING. Philadelphia Police Search for Party Who Ran Down a Boy.

PHILADELPHIA, June 27.-A police search covering this city, Chester, Wilmington and intermediate boroughs is on for a party of four women and a man who were riding last night in an automobile which struck and killed Eldon Sarves, 5 years old, at Broad street and Susquehanna avenue.

Every one in the auto apparently was drunk. The child was crossing the street and the driver seemed to turn the machine toward him deliberately. The boy was blinded by the searchlights, and instead of running to the side ran directly into it. He was tossed ten feet and landed with his skull crushed at his mother's feet.

The automobile made no stop. The occupants jeered at two bicycle policemen who tried to catch the auto. The Automobile Club of Philadelphia offered a reward of $100 for the detection of the driver and his companions. Members of the club were of the opinion that the party deserved being held for murder, and they offered cooperate with both Capt. Donaghy and Coroner Dugan.

The airship again descended and this time was navigated to the starting place. Mr. Knabenshue stated that the mechanism was perfect.

DECIDE HOOKER CAN BE TRIED

LEGISLATURE HAS JURISDICTION, SENATE COMMITTEE VOTES.

Grady and McCarren Chime in With the Others-Doubted Now If the Justice Can Get Fifteen Votes Against a Resolution Providing for Removal.

ALBANY, June 27.-In view of the aroused public sentiment to-night it is a matter of much mystery where Supreme Court Justice Warren B. Hooker can get fifteen members of the State Senate to vote to keep him on the bench and against a resolution providing for his removal.

This afternoon the Senate Judiciary Committee met and after being in session an hour and a half unanimously voted that the Legislature has jurisdiction to try him and to-morrow will report the resolution of the Assembly Judiciary Committee preferring charges against Justice Hooker to the Senate.

Senators Thomas F. Grady and Patrick H. McCarren, who had loudly protested that the Legislature had no jurisdiction in the matter, voted for that resolution this afternoon. Other members of the committee present were Senators Brackett, Davis, Allds, Lewis, Page and Raines. The absentees were Senators Marks, Elsberg, Armstrong, Warnick and Cobb.

Senator Brackett, chairman of the committee, presented a twenty-two page opinion showing that the Legislature had jurisdiction to proceed against Justice Hooker and to try him, and also to remove him. One of the opinions cited is that of a case of a Massachusetts Probate Judge. There the removal was on address. This Judge in 1854 had served as a United Commissioner and had seen Phillips learned back towly incident and he addressed the Governor of Massachusetts to remove him. The Governor refused to do so. In 1857 another Governor had been inaugurated. Wendell Phillips addressed him to remove the Judge, and this time he succeeded in carrying his point.

"And here," said Senator Brackett, "we have the case of a man being removed from office for an act committed prior to the time he was a Judge." In his opinion Senator Brackett cites other cases which show that the Legislature not only has a right but that the precedent of such proceeding has been established. It was known last week that the Hooker adherents had every hope of the Senate Judiciary Committee voting that the Legislature did not have jurisdiction to try Justice Hooker on the charges preferred. The Hooker people hope to be able to prevent the removal through the inability of the prosecutors to secure a two-thirds vote in the Senate. There are two absent Senators, Barnes of Rensselaer and Hill of Buffalo, so that 34 votes are required to get the necessary two-thirds vote of all Senators present Last week it was asserted that the fourteen Democratic Senators would vote against removal, and that they would be joined by Senators Elsberg and Saxe of New York and McEwen of Albany, Republicans. Whether the deal made prior to last week's session of the Legislature is still in force in view of the aroused public sentiment demanding the removal of Justice Hooker cannot be learned to-night. However, the Hooker adherents are still of of removal cannot be secured in the Senate.

To-morrow the Senate and Assembly Judiciary Committees will meet and out line a plan of procedure for the trial of the accused Justice and then will report to the two Houses. The Legislature is to meet at 3 o'clock to-morrow afternoon to receive the report of the Senate Judiciary Committee. When that is made the Senate will adopt the resolution calling upon Justice Hooker to appear before the Legislature and show cause why he shall not be removed from office. It is likely that the date selected for his appearance before the Legislature to answer the charges will be some time after next week.

GEN. WOOD GETS HOME.

Polard Wood arrived to-day on the Manchuria from Manila to pay a flying visit to the President. He said the condition of the islands was better than reports would indicate, and the Samar trouble, he declared, originated in Borneo. The bandits recently killed had escaped from the British Government. Thirty-eight were killed and wounded before the gang surrendered.

Gen. Wood hesitated when the tariff was mentioned. "I must admit," he said, "that the tariff is the greatest drawback to the prosperity of the country. It seems hard that the American people investing American money under the American flag should have to pay tariff charges to get goods into their own country. If we are to succeed in developing the islands this must be changed, and I believe it will We finally got reciprocity for Cuba after the people had given up hope, and the Philippine tariff will eventually be modified so as to permit the free importation of products of the islands into the home country."

KAISER HESITATES WHEN ENG-LAND BACKS UP FRANCE.

Reply to the Note of M. Rouvier Is Conciliatory-Less Wartike Feeling in Both the French and German Capitals -French Press Takes a Hopeful Tone

Special Cable Despatches to THE SUN. LONDON. June 27.-While it is difficult to reconcile the Berlin and Paris versions of Germany's reply to the French note, there seems to be justification for the inference that the Kaiser has considerably modified belligerent attitude. This is undoubtedly due to the decisive stand taken by Great Britain in support of the French position.

It can now be definitely stated that England will act as the ally of France if war breaks out. This is perfectly understood in Berlin, and in the opinion of most observers it will prove a sufficient guarantee of peace. It must not be inferred that German ambitions will be abandoned, but it is hoped they will be considerably modified and perhaps turned in another direction. The situation is still extremely delicate, for it is announced from Berlin that Germany refuses to prearrange a program for the Morocco conference, while a high authority in Paris insists that France will not permit the existing Morocco agreement with England and Spain to be revised.

Nevertheless, advices from both capitals igree that the present negotiations are likely to result in reaching a basis of an agreement. There are strong hopes the British af meen made concerning the note from Germany. Inquiries at the Ministry of Foreign Affiars lead to the belief that it is not a definite reply to France's note, but is a sort of ad interim communication, which, while leaving matters much as they were, keeps open opportunities for further

On two points all sources of information agree. These are that the note is couched in a carefully, even elaborately, courteous tone, and that it coes not yield regarding the principle of a conference. The note has produced a good impression because its studied courtesy is accepted as being intended to be conciliatory, and anxiety over the outcome of the crisis has practically anished Prince von Badolin, the German Ambassador, called at the Foreign Office this afternoon with Germany's rejoinder to the French note.

It is learned from an excellent source that the French Government will not consent to an out and out conference of the Powers to settle the Morocco question. A mutual good will appears in the latest notes exchanged, foreshadowing an understanding which, while answering the interests of both Powers, will not affect arrangements already reached with third parties. Prime Minister Rouvier held a conference with the Cabinet this morning

The Figaro states that Germany's note in reply to Premier Rouvier's upon the Morocco matter arrived in Paris yesterday. and would be handed to Rouvier to-day. The arguments in the French note, the Figaro says, have not convinced Germany of the efficacy of eliminating the idea of a European conference upon Moroccan affairs. Germany repudiates even the appearance of regulating Moroccan affairs on its own initiative. Therefore it is considered probable that France will agree to a conference. On meeting Prince von Radolin to-day Premier Rouvier said that before giving any definite reply he would submit the German note to the Cabinet. It is understood that the conversation between him and Von Radolin was of the friendliest

London, June 28.-The Berlin correspondent of the Express says that President Roosevelt, at Emperor William's request, intervened in the Morocco controversy to the extent of advising Great Britain that strict restraint was advisable in the interests of peace. Germany represented to Washington that the attitude of Great Britain, particularly the aggressive language of the British press in inviting France to defy Germany, constituted the chief danger to

Mrs. Hay Tells the Payne Whitneys Not to Put Off Their Trip to Europs -A Telegram Received From President Roosevelt Expressing Confidence.

NEWBURY, N. H.; June 27 .- Secretary of State Hay passed a comfortable day, although the weather conditions were such as to be unfavorable to convalescence it was announced this morning at the Hay cottage that the patient had passed comfortable night and that the morning found him resting quietly, much refreshed. Although Mr. Hay's sleep was intermittent; it resulted in the regaining of considerable strength. It was not believed, however, to-day that the Secretary would be about as soon as has been expected. The arrival of a nurse and of a physician; Dr. Jackson, from Boston last night was a result of the belief of physicians and of members of Mr. Hay's family that the Secretary would undoubtedly need the most careful medical attention and nursing during the coming days. The family does not, however, apprehend any great danger, out realizes that the attack of uremia of Saturday, following as it did a period of illness, for which Mr. Hay went abroad for treatment, weakened the Sapuly on the late afternoon train, leaving Dr.

Murphy in charge of the patient. Mrs. Hay telegraphed her son-in-law. Payne Whitney, to make no change in his plans to sail for Europe to-day with Mrs. Whitney, saying that Mr. Hay was in no danger and that his recovery was expected

During the night and to-day a number of telegraphic messages arrived from friends inquiring as to the condition of the patient. Among the despatches received was the following from President Roose-

"I cannot but be concerned about your telegram, but am entirely confident that the trouble is but evanescent."

I am supposed to say funny things at the expense of your business, but I don't believe in doing that any more than do I believe in cracking jokes concerning a mother-in-law. I do not think they are in good taste. I consider them of de
